

THE NEW ERA OF BUYER BROKERAGE AGREEMENTS

THE ARRIVAL OF BUYER BROKERAGE AGREEMENTS

Real estate is always on the move, and so are the laws governing it. In Washington State, home buyers are now required to sign a Buyer Brokerage Services Agreement when working with a licensed real estate broker like myself.

FROM OPTIONAL TO MANDATORY

Buyer Brokerage Agreements have been around for quite a while. And now they are legally required by Washington State. These agreements offer crucial safeguards for everyone involved, and are similar to how long-standing seller listing agreements have always worked.

SAFEGUARDING YOUR INTERESTS

These agreements shield you from potential conflicts of interest, mandate me to adhere to specific professional guidelines, and ensure transparency about my legal responsibilities and compensation. This all leads to a clearer understanding from the start as we team up on your upcoming home purchase.

CONSISTENT SERVICE, FAMILIAR AGREEMENT

The Cascade Team has always recommended Buyer Brokerage Agreements, and now they are the required standard across Washington State. With a Buyer Brokerage Agreement in place, you will continue to get top-notch buyer representation, expert negotiations, and extensive market insights you have always relied on.
